RUSSIA'S PEACE ENVOY ARRIVES

SERGIUS WITTE REACHES NEW YORK

Denies Having Said Japan's Probable Terms too Intolerable—Speaks of Friendship for United States.

New York, Aug. 2.—Clothed with plenary powers, personally prepared and signed by his sovereign, Sergius Witte, first ranking plenipotentiary to the Washington conference, landed here to day from the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse as quietly and democratically as the most humble of his fellow passengers. M. Lodygensky, the Russian consul general, and members of his staff went down the harbor in a revenue cutter this morning officially to greet the distinguished envoy and was received by M. Witte on deck while the Kaiser Wilhelm was at quarantine. Witte was handed important dispatches from St. Petersburg, which he opened, read and quietly put in his pocket.

Awaiting Witte at the dock was Baron Rosen, Russian ambassador at Washington, with his first secretary. Rosen came on board as soon as the ship reached the dock and cordially greeted his confereo and members of his suite. After a majority of passengers landed Witte came down the gang plank on the arm of Baron Rosen, followed by the suite, and soon found his passage impeded by a tremendous crowd, who cheered him, and whose greetings Witte smilingly acknowledged by repeatedly lifting his hat. Policemen cleared a passage to an automobile which was awaiting the party outside the dock. Midway down the pier the procession was again stopped, this time, however, by a delegation from the Slavonic society of New York. The Russian envoy made a brief but cordial response.

STATEMENT BY WITTE.

New York, Aug. 2.—Sergius Witte, Russian peace plenipotentiary, on his arrival here this afternoon, emphatically denied having said Japan's peace terms were intolerable. He also denied positively that he had predicted that the conference would break up in a week. Witte in an interview said:

"It is in compliance with the American people's desire for peace, of which President Roosevelt was the authorized exponent, that his majesty the czar has empowered me to come hither and ascertain the conditions which our gallant adversary deems necessary and adequate as the basis for peace negotiations. I need hardly point out that it is my ardent desire that the two chivalrous foes, who first became acquainted on the field of battle, may have found in each other's sterling qualities motives powerful enough to cultivate that acquaintanceship until it ripens into lasting friendship. Meanwhile, however, the terms offered must first be ascertained, weighed and judged admissible by Russia before she can proceed to formal negotiations. Hitherto, as you are aware, it was customary in cases like this to settle all such preliminaries before the meeting of plenipotentiaries, whose task it was to come to final agreement on matters under discussion. Now the very fact that his majesty the czar consented to take a course involving departure from this ancient diplomatic usage and to appoint a mission to learn the nature of our brave enemy's terms, is an eloquent token of friendly feeling which he and his subjects continued to cherish toward the people of the United States. I say continue to cherish, because at no epoch in our history have our traditional relations with this great republic been other than cordial. And now I should like to say, aye, and to prove to your people, who live less in the past than in the present and future, that it is the fervent wish of the emperor and people of Russia further to strengthen the ties of friendship which have hitherto subsisted between the two nations.

"It is in virtue of that sincere desire that his majesty the czar, waiving all other considerations, has unhesitatingly accepted the cordial invitation of your first citizen and genial leader. And if my mission should prove in all other respects barren and the endeavor to find a common basis for peace negotiations should fail for the time being, the signal proof of friendship given by his majesty the czar and the Russian nation would still stand out as a memorable event, fraught, I trust, with far-reaching and beneficient results to the two great peoples of the west and the east."

San Juan, Porto Rico, Aug. 2.—As the outcome of the longshoremen's strike for an increase of wages the greater portion of San Juan was under control of a mob bteween seven and nine last night. The mob dug up paving blocks and stones and rushed through the streets fighting police. One person was killed and forty injured, three of whom may die.

At noon the strike situation was quiet following rioting last night, and the police, it is believed, will be able to cope with it. Carbineers are on roof tops commanding the streets in the disreputable districts. Troops have been ordered to remain in barracks ready for emergency.

Governor Winthrop said to day: "I am going to have order in San Juan if I have to bring policemen from every town in the island. If the police should prove insufficient, I propose to call on Colonel Crane for soldiers and on Captain Dunlap (commandant of the naval station) for marines. So long as the strikers behave there will be no interference with them, but the moment they attempt any disturbance police will be instructed to use their clubs freely and to shoot into the riotous bodies and not over their heads. There will be no more blank cartridges."

KAISER OBJECTS TO REPUBLIC.

RAILROADS REFUSE PERISHABLE FREIGHT

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 2.—The immediate evidence of loses the public must suffer as a result of the telegraphers' strike apears to day in the accumulation of perishable freight at commission houses here. Fruit, vegetables, eggs, poultry, fish, perishable shipments of all sorts destined for points aoshrdlaordrdldoo destined for towns between St. Paul and the state of Washington were refused to day with few exceptions by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific reads and by express companies of both roads. The Northern Pacific refused perishable freight of any quantity regardless of destination.

With telegraphers almost to a man remaining loyal to their union chiefs and railway officials making every effort to maintain traffic, the telegraphers' strike on the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific railroads has taken on the aspect of a war to a finish. Hundreds of men have gone out on both lines, necessitating the losing of scores of stations and immense hindrance has been caused in the moving of trains. Through limited trains and time freights by a great effort have been kept almost on schedule time, but attempts have principally been abandoned to maintain local freights.

Local railway men say they are well satisfied with the situation and within ten days they will have enough men to fill the places of the strikers and maintain normal service. Meanwhile trains are run on time card rules and in sections and in this manner satisfactory progress is made.

President Perham of the telegraphers declares that 97 per cent of the union members are out and that they will stay out until they receive what the officials have decided will be a square deal. He states that a number of train dispatchers, while not members of the union, went out in sympathy.

General Manager Horn of the Northern Pacific said the situation on the whole had improved considerably during the day and that traffic is moving to night in a fairly satisfactory manner.

FEW STRIKERS.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 2.—Up to noon to day only one telegrapher had struck on the Seattle division of the Northern Pacific, but the division is affected by the tie-up of trains eastward. There Great Northern operators here went out and on the coast line reports show a number of others struck. All Great Northern comercial wires are silent.

OBEY STRIKE ORDER.

Helena, Mont. Aug. 2.—Fourth Vice President Dermony of the Order of Railway Telegraphers says members of the order in the state have responded almost to a man to President Perham's call and that the railroads are having far more difficulty in handling trains than they admit.

Billings, Mont., Aug. 2.—All Northern Pacific operators are out between Forsythe and Livingston, except one at Columbus. Manager Sloan and General Agent Hoyt, of Billings, are holding down that office. Strikers have established headquarters at Billings and expect to have fifty men there before night awaiting developments. Passenger trains are running on slow time and freight traffic is demoralized. A special from Havre, Mont., says eight operators on the Great Northern quit. Passenger trains are running on moderate schedules and two stock trains held over night went out this morning. Both companies are said to have been scattering men along their lines for two weeks in anticipation of the strike.

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 2.—No freight except sidetracked trains is being moved over the Rocky Mountain division of the Northern Pacific owing to the practically complete tie up of the system by the telegraphers' strike. Train crews admit that the present condition is the most complete tie up ever known on the Northern Pacific.

WILSON'S STATEMENT

Why Secretary of Agriculture Sent Son to Alaska at Government's Expense.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Secretary Wilson to day issued a statement relating to the charge his son, Private Secretary Wilson, made a trip to Alaska a year and a half go at the expense of the department. The statement follows:

"There was a dispute between miners of Alaska and other people not living in Alaska regarding the condition of game there. It was reported to me by our scientist that game was abundant and the supply in no danger of exhaustion. Delegations from Alaska ncem here protesting against sending anybody there with permission to shoot or bring out trophies. Congress had given me power to grant permits and we had given them freely for a while. Foreign noblemen wanted to go there and shoot game trophies. They would shoot until they got as good a specimens as they wanted, leaving the carcasses of others to rot. The miners claimed they lived there in winter and that the game was a resource which often stood between them and starvation. They thought it ought to be left for their use.

"So here was a dispute and here was a demand for permits to hunt, kill and bring out trophies. I wanted to know the real facts and I sent my private secretary there with instructions where to go and what to find out. He was to bring back a report to me. This he did. He was a salaried officer here. The department paid his traveling expenses, of course.

"Upon receipt of the secretary's report I shut down on granting permits to everybody except persons representing museums and educational institutions. Since that time no permits have been given. There is only one point to be determined, and that is whether heads of animals killed in winter for meat might not be brought out as trophies. I think they might be, providing we can have it done without encouraging the hunters, and so the matter rests at this time."

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Speaking of the fight between railroads operating to New York and lines to the Gulf of Mexico ports for export grain business, President Stuyvesant Fish of the Illinois Central said to day that the Illinois Central was in the export business to stay and would attempt to influence all export business possible via New Orleans. Discussing the work of the interstate commerce commission, Fish declared he was in favor of making that body a court of record, capable of enforcing the rulings, or passing the strongest kind of legislation tending to wipe out every known form of rebate that bears the earmarks of discrimination.

FEVER REPORTS SHOW INCREASE

MORTALITY IS BECOMING GREATER

New Orleans Health Authorities Still Take Hopeful View of Situation—Question of Federal Control Discussed.

New Orleans, Aug. 2.—To day's reports of the fever situation showed increase in the number of deaths, but health authorities confessed to no alarm over the situation and said that more fatalities were to be looked for from the fact in the past three or four days there has been a sufficient increase in the number of cases to warrant expectation of heavier mortality. High temperatures succeeded by heavy precipitation and cooler weather produced climatic conditions also favorable to fatalities. Practically all the deaths were of Italians. There was no dissent among authorities from the view expressed by Health Officer Kohnke that conditions were hopeful.

Postmaster Woodward to day received a letter from the railway mail service at Atlanta, saying Greenville, Miss., had notified that office that hereafter it will receive no letters mailed from New Orleans that have not been disinfected and that under no circumstances will it receive newspapers whether disinfected or not. Postmaster Woodward talked over with marine hospital surgeons the question of fumigation of mails and was told that having accepted the mosquito theory the surgeons considered disinfection of mail utterly unnecessary.

The question whether or not federal control of the situation ought to be invited is still discussed, but unless graver conditions arise it is not regarded as likely there will be any movement in that direction. No apprehension exists of any serious results from the trouble that has arisen on the Mississippi-Louisiana border over the enforcement of the Mississippi quarantine and it is thought Mississippi soldiers, who have been freely coming across the Louisiana line, will hereafter be required to keep on their side of the border, and thus all further possibility of clashes will be removed.

The order was the result of a conference held this afternoon between Dr. Egan, secretary of the Illinois state board of health; Dr. Sullivan, member of the board, and Acting Major Wood. To night a letter was prepared by Dr. Egan, addressed to officials of railroads, notifying them of the fact.

Dr. Egan returned this afternoon from Memphis, where eho investigated the methods employed to guard against the fever epidemic. Dr. Egan has sent to Springfield for four inspectors and to morrow morning they will begin the work of inspecting all trains and steamboats. Trains will be met at East Cairo and inspected before they cross the bridge. An inspector will be placed at Thebes to inspect all trains crossing the bridge at that point.

Court Will Find Boilers Were in Poor Condition.

It may be stated authoritatively the court will find the boiler of the Bennington exploded not because of unusually high pressure, but because the metal of the crown sheets and bolts holding the crown sheets in place had become dead and had lost all life and nearly all tentile strength by constant use and failure to renew weakened places during the years the Bennington was in service. The court will not censure officers of the Bennington, but will pass the matter of responsibility to higher authority.

TO BE INVESTIGATED

Insurance Commissioners of Four States Will Take Action.

The insurance commissioners who will go to New York Aug. 10 and begin the investigation are Reau E. Folk, Tennessee; Henry R. Prewitt, Kentucky; Zeno M. Host, Wisconsin; Thomas D. O'Brien, Minnesota. Other insurance commissioners who attended the convention, but who did not join in the movement, were W. H. Vronongurg, Illinois; James W. Barry, Michigan; B. F. Carroll, Iowa.

COHEN CASE.

Springfield News: The hearing of evidence in the Cohen bankruptcy case continued through Wednesday. The depositions now being read in the court bring out some interesting facts concerning the career of the Jacksonville bankrupt. A list of the checks deposited by Cohen in the Illinois Trust & Savings bank in the latter part of March and the first part of February show that he put in $57,328 and drew out $55,958. Some of the checks deposited in the bank had been in Cohen's possession for about a month. He had written to firms with whom he did business in different parts of the country, urging them to remit to him in a lump sum. It is this money which he deposited in the Chicago bank which he says he lost at the gaming table. There is some local testimony in the case as to Cohen's presence in Springfield. Morris Goldstein and Marcus Klempner testify that he was visiting here at a certain time and witnesses from Jacksonville swear he was in that city at the same time.

New London, Iowa, Aug. 2.—A mob of citizens believing Victor Lee had mistreated his wife and had had her sent to an insane asylum to secure her property, attacked him to day in the street. First Day's Exercises at Sault Ste. Marie—Vice President Fairbanks Takes Part—Will Deliver Address to Day.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 2.—An elaborate display of fireworks, participated in jointly by Canadians and Americans, to night concluded the first day's exercises in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the opening of the Sault Ste. Marie canal. The Canadian government contributed liberally to the exhibition and Canadians showed great enthusiasm. Hundreds of persons lined both sides of the river to witness the American and Canadian displays. Both Canadians and Americans cheerd as a mammoth pyrotechnic portrait of King Edward was shown, while bands on the water front played British and American patriotic hymns.

The city was illuminated to night. All canal structures of both governments and streets generally were lighted by thousands of incandescent lights, Japanese lanterns being used in the government park. Previous to the fireworks display Governor Warner of Michigan received, in the government park, Vice President Fairbanks, who took part in the exercises to day and will be the principal speaker to morrow.

During the day the principal events were an impressive parade of government and other vessels and Canadian ships up the St. Mary's river, through the Canadian locks and a military procession. Large crowds lined the walls of the Canadian and American locks after a dozen boats had entered at one time and incidentally gave Vice President Fairbanks, on board the revenue cutter Tuscarora, an enthusiastic welcome. Scores of steamers in the harbor joined in the demonstration and kept up a deafening din for some time.

SOLDIERS OF FREE MASONRY

INSTITUTION PRESERVER OF ANCIENT RITES AND SYMBOLISM.

Part Played by Organization in Struggle for American Independence—Revolutionary and Civil War Leaders Who Were Members of Order.

The members of the latter day fraternities, comprising over 50 per cent of the present adult male American citizenship, are always interested in a matter of history which reflects new glory on the venerable mother of secret fraternal organization—the Masonic craft. This friendly and lively interest is not surprising, considering the fact that Freemasonry has been the repository for all the ancient legends, the mystic lore, the ritualism, the symbolism and the ceremonials of barbaric splendor (betraying their eastern origin) which, varied in their application to suit particular circumstances and requirements, have been used by all secret societies for centuries past, to inculcate useful and purely Christian lessons.

To Freemasonry is due the credit for the preservation of practically all secret society rites and symbolism, without which, as a foundation, a large part of modern society ritualism would be stale, flat and unprofitable, and would attract but a very small percentage of American citizens to the lodge room. Consequently, any facts concerning Masonry or Masons, and the part played by either on the world's stage at any period of its history, is of general interest to fraternalists.

An inquiry was made by Gen. John Corson Smith, a Masonic authority, as to the part played in the revolutionary and civil wars by the Masonic fraternity. Just how powerful and far reaching was the influence secretly wielded by Masonry in shaping events preliminary to the war which ended at Yorktown in the birth of a new world-power, will probably never be known. But that the influence of organized Freemasonry practically the world over was thrown into the balance with American independence, can not be gainsaid. When the agents of the American patriots, seeking aid, were coldly refused a hearing by the ministers of the French and Dutch governments some powerful influence threw open the doors. Franklin and other agents of the continental congress were thereafter not only welcomed by governments hostile to the purposes of the American revolutions, but were patronized and lionized by the nobility. Court and army circles vied with each other in doing them honor.

Generals Washington, Warren and Lafayette were Master Masons. Franklin himself was a Mason, and Masonic authorities agreed in the statement that all but two of the signers of the declaration of independence were members of the craft. In fact, Freemasonry, at that period, not only in America, but in Europe, was honey-combed with treason to kingly authority; and when all other means failed, Masonry, with its branches in every part of the known world, found means to aid the sore-pressed army of patriots who followed General Washington. So powerful was this secret influence that the most rabid advocates of the Divine right of kings; leaders of the nobility of France, Holland, Germany, Austria and Spain, became active agents in promoting the cause of American independence, which, as many of them recognized, would in its supremacy be a body-blow to the monarchial institutions, under which they personally prospered. Even the French king, who clearly foresaw the danger to his throne should American arms triumph, was led to give the patriots, not only countenance, but active support.

Just what part Freemasonry played, just how much credit is due that fraternity for the final triumph of American arms, will probably never be officially known, for it is not the Masonic custom to publish its doings. It may fairly be asserted, however, that but for the aid secretly rendered at opportune times by the Masonic craft, the cause of American liberty might have then been defeated, though its ultimate success would, of course, have long ere this ensued.

In the civil war leaders in Masonry played a not less prominent part, but in this struggle they were found largely on both sides—confederate and union. While the Masons of the north, east and west were loyal to the union cause, the southern Masons quite as unanimously cast their lot with the confederacy.

General Smith enumerates nearly one hundred generals in the union army who were Masons. Among the number may be mentioned droopy-eyed Ben Butler, of Massachusetts; the present commander of the American army, Gen. Nelson A. Miles; the deceased secretary of war, Gen. Russell A. Alger, of Michigan, and Gen. William R. Shafter, commander of the American forces at Santiago, also of Michigan. From Ohio came two Masonic union generals who were afterward to be elected presidents of the United States—Gen. James A. Garfield and Maj. William McKinley. Another Masonic general in the union army died in Chicago—Gen. John McNulta. Other union generals listed by General Smith, from Illinois, are as follows:

J. C. Black, Philip Sydney Post, John E. Smith, John C. Smith, Thos. E. Champion, Thomas S. Mather, John M. Palmer, John A. McClernand, John A. Rowlins, A. L. Chetlain, Thomas J. Henderson, James S. Martin, Stephen A. Hurlbut, John A. Logan, John Cook, William R. Rowley, Robert W. Smith, J. Wilson Shafer, Daniel Dustin, John McArthur, John I. Rinaker, Smith D. Atkins, Isham N. Haynie.

Included in the above list are five generals from one Masonic lodge of fifty members, viz.: Miners, No. 273, Galena, Ill. These were Gen. John A. Rawlins, who entered the service as captain on the staff of Gen. U. S. Grant, and came out in 1865 as Grant's chief of staff. Only a few years later, while filling the post of secretary of war, he died. The others were Gens. John E. Smith, who died last winter; Ely S. Parker, who afterward became commissioner of Indian affairs, and died in 1895; William R. Rowley, who was Grant's provost marshal and private secretary, and who died about ten years ago; and John C. Smith, who entered the service as a private, and in 1864 was general of a division—afterward became lieutenant governor of Illinois; and he it is (John Corson Smith), who has taken the trouble to collect these Masonic statistics relating to the part his fraternity played in the revolutionary and civil wars.

General Smith lists a large number of Masons who were generals in the confederate service, also. Among the number are Gen. Albert Pike, of Arkansas, prominent the world over as a Masonic writer; Gen. J. C. Breckenridge, of Kentucky, who was vice president of the United States at the commencement of the war; Gen. George Stoneman of California, who was afterward governor of that state, and Generals Mansfield, Lovell and Daniel Ruggles, of Louisiana.

On the field of battle many escapes from death and imprisonment might be credited to the fact that the combatants were members of the great Masonic fraternity. It is said that when Gen. Frank J. Herron, of Iowa, was a lieutenant colonel, he was wounded at Pea Ridge. As he lay upon the ground, an Indian of Gen. Albert Pike's command was about to give him short shrift with his knife, when Colonel Herron gave a Masonic sign, to which the Indian replied. Needless to state, his life was spared.

Gen. Smith D. Atkins, now postmaster of Freeport and editor of the Freeport Daily Bulletin, not long ago told a story about an experience of his during the Atlanta campaign. His command was pressing the enemy vigorously. Passing a small cabin he noticed a little white apron nailed to the door. He stopped and asked the woman he found there its significance. She said her husband was in Forest's cavalry; that he was a Mason, and that on leaving home he had advised her to nail a white apron to the door, which would inform all Masons in the federal army that she was the wife of a brother Mason and required protection. That little cabin was one of the best guarded places along the entire route of the army.

Among the confederate prisoners captured by Gen. John C. Smith's company was the adjutant of an Alabama regiment, wearing a Masonic charm. He was badly wounded. General Smith, without informing the prisoner that he was a member of the craft, accepted his personal parole within the union lines, and sent him to the home of Judge Ready, the father-in-law of the confederate general, John H. Morgan.

The father of Hon. W. A. Northcott, ex-lieutenant governor of Illinois, Gen. R. S. Northcott, of Clarksburg, W. Va., still living, has been a Mason ever since he was old enough to be eligible for membership. When was was declared he was at his home in Murfreesboro, Tenn. With the aid of his Masonic brethren, who decidedly were not in sympathy with his union sentiments, he made his way into West Virginia, where he joined a union command. Gen. Northcott never returned permanently to his Tennessee home, but at the close of the war settled in West Virginia. It is a coincidence that his son, besides being lieutenant governor of Illinois, was also head consul of the Modern Woodmen, with the exception of the purely fraternal Masonic society, the strongest fraternal benefit society in the United States.

Instances like these could be multiplied by thousands, all illustrating the strong sentiment of fraternalism outweighing the rancor of partisan spirit, which led too often to regrettable and brutal treatment of prisoners.

New Phase of Marriage Law—Menard County Farmer Killed by Switch Engine—Teachers Named at Normal—Mother Other and Daughter Wed—Notes.

ILLINOIS MARRIAGE LAW.

Pekin—A new phase of the Illinois marriage law was brought up Wednesday. Under the new law no person who has been divorced can remarry within a period of one year from the date of the decree for divorce. Wednesday inquiry was made by a gentleman from Delavan regarding the meaning of the law. He states that he was granted a divorce in Indiana less than a year ago. He moved to Illinois and is now a resident here. He is soon to be married to a young lady in Delavan and the question of securing a marriage license was brought to the attention of County Clerk Bergstresser. The latter has stated that he will not issue a license until he has an opinion from the attorney general regarding this new phase of the marriage license question. Attorneys who have been consulted do not believe that when a man or woman comes to the state divorced that they are required to wait the time specified in the new law before remarrying, as they come here, according to law, single men and women. This is the first instance where this question has come up and considerable interest attaches to the opinion of Attorney General Stead.

THE REAL TEST

Of Herpicide Is In Giving It a Thorough Trial.

There is only one test by which to judge of the efficiency of any article, and that is by its ability to do that which it is intended to do. Many hair vigors may look nice and smell nice, but the point is—do they eradicate Dandruff and stop falling hair?

No, they do not, but Herpicide does, because it goes to the root of the evil and kills the germ that attacks the papilla from whence the hair gets its life.

Letters from prominent people everywhere are daily proving that Newbro's Herpicide stands the "test of use."

It is a delightful dressing, clear, pure and free from oil or grease.

SMOKING A CIGAR

Curious Bet That Shows an Impossible Way of Smoking.

"We have a customer who thinks he smokes twenty Wadsworth Bros.' Chicos a day," said Armstrong & Armstrong. "As a matter of fact, he gives away a good many, but is firm in his belief that he smokes more cigars than any other man in Jacksonville. He says he is willing to bet that no man can smoke even one cigar continuously until it is consumed without taking it from his lips, and he has won a good many boxes of Chicos on this simple bet.

"Of course, this man's trade keeps us buying Chicos right along, but aside from what we sell him, Chicos have the largest sale of any cigar in our case.

"We warrant it clear Havana filler, and although it sells for 5 cents it is equal to any 10 cent goods. We cannot recommend it too highly."

When Governor Blanchard finally told Governor Vardaman to go away back and sit down, he went.

Jingoism has broken out again in Russia and in the absence of Peace Envoy Witte, the leader of the conservative party of the empire, the radicals hope to create enough enthusiasm to influence his majesty to utter a manifesto declaring for a continuation of the war.

Mark Twain in his Pudden Head Wilson swung his plot on the fact that the imprints of two human fingers, made on wax, are alike. Now the state of New York is urging the passage of a law making the finger print good as a signature as a means of making forgeries impossible.

Attorney Jerome has put it up to the people. He declares no man who accepts a nomination from a political party is a free agent. Notwithstanding the announcement of the New York prosecutor, neither of the old parties show any inclination to go out of business and good men and true will doubtless be found among the list of party nominees. In the United States the man who has tried to be bigger than his party, or who has sought political preferment without the aid of party affiliation, has soon found himself on a fast train to retirement. Party organization is fundamental in the United States.

Attorney General Moody says many of our federal laws are obsolete and that it will take the enactment of some new legislation before the suppression of the present up-to-date rascality, otherwise termed graft, can be surpassed. The rules of conduct of a previous generation, the secretary declares, are not suited to the crop of corruptionists developed during the last decade. There is doubtless much wisdom in the utterance of the attorney general and the special session of congress can find no better business than the enactment of stringent laws that will make it hard for the grafter to even ply his nefarious trade and make it still harder for him to escape the clutches of the law when he has been found out.

FAKE INTERVIEWS.

From the number of fake interviews that have been published regarding the peace envoys, there seems to be little possibility of the conference ever reaching a discussion of the fundamentals of the situation. The hot air stuff that has been dished up to a gullible public has been largely manufactured by the space writers as the real utterances of the plenipotentiaries have been few and far between.

The forecasted action of the peace envoys has been entirely of a speculative character. One fact seems to stand out plainly, however, above all others, namely, that Japan's representatives are here with plenary powers and expect the credentials of the Russian representatives to show the same authority. If they do not the island power does not propose to tolerate the Fabian policy that was practiced by the czar before the formal opening of hostilities. It is fair to assume that Japan will make her demands plain and that it will be up to Russia to say whether they are within the possibility of concluding an "honorable peace."

"HARMONY PLAN."

Editor Journal: It is now more than four years since I penned a line for the columns of the Jornal on political issues, because our Democratic friends by their Kilkenny Parker-Bryan squabble made the campaign of 1904 a Democratic farce—a laughable comedy of errors. No issues. No harmony. Nothing but raillery and political assassination we had in every state from the moment the St. Louis Democratic national convention was declared closed until the polls closed Nov. 4th. A cimmerian pall enveloped the Democratic party, and the Parker funeral cortege was apparent. No Democratic enthusiasm as in past years. Thus the Republican party in state, county and nation had no cause to organize to meet the enemy, for the good reason that the Murphys, Clevelands and Bryan capitulated to Mr. Roosevelt and Judge Alton B. Parker was given ample time to enjoy his early morning ablutions in the limpid waters of the Hudson, and to "pail his cows." Therefore, it is pure moonshine for us to claim that the wisdom of certain Republican leaders in this state was the factor in the political victory of 1904.

The talk of Governor Deneen's "harmony plan" is indeed commendable, but is it practicable? No, it is not. Why not? My answer is that the action of ex-Governor Yates and Senator Cullom cannot unite our party in loyal support of either gentleman. The lines are drawn taut and the state is irrevocably divided into two well defined factions, i. e., the Yates-Sherman vs. "the Cullom federal crowd." I deplore this condition, and I say this, that neither Senator Cullom nor Governor Yates can bring about a settlement; the "quitters" won't help the Yates organization, nor will the Yates people help the "federal crowd." Well, how would you harmonize the party? I would recognize the fact that the Republican voters are men acapable of doing their own thinking. Let Governor Deneen keep hands off, and when the time comes for our primaries to meet let us meet as gentlemen, let there be no knock down and drag out business as we had in 1904; let all unseemly asperity disappear, and let there be an honest ballot and a fair count, and if Governor Yates secures the most votes in an honorable way, then, the minority should say: "The controversy is ended; we are Americans; we are Republicans," and all join in one big shout, "Hail to the victor."

I am an ultra Cullom man. I first espoused a liking for this pure man in 1867, and for thirty-eight years I have watched his political career as congressman, then governor and senator. But, I am not a man worshipper. I am not a man that ever hunted any office holder for a job. My manhood is higher and nobler, and I admire all men, Democrats or Republicans, who love principle more than the flesh pots.

After eight years of wrangling we should call a halt and our "leaders," whose ambition leads them to aspire to occupy high public trust as the trustees of our political interests, should esteem it a high honor to be selected by the honest suffrages of the people, and such a person should be a dove of peace, and on his banner should be inscribed the motto of the "Silent Commander": "Let us have peace." This would remove all rancor, "harmony" would be enthroned in every Republican heart, the grand and noble, inspiring history of from 1856 to the era of Tannerism would repeat itself; our office holders would be respected and hailed as honest men whose acts were above reproach and suspicion. Will Governor Deneen be hailed as the "dove of peace"?

HORSE FELL INTO DITCH

A horse in a ditch created a great deal of interest in the vicinity of the new Christian church building for about an hour and a half Wednesday night. A horse driven by Dr. David Reid fell into an excavation in front of the residence of Charles L. Degen and was there wedged so tightly that it required the combined efforts of Chief LaBoyteaux and a squad from the fire department, the street commissioner, W. J. Harney, and a large crowd of neighbors almost ninety minutes to effect a release and place the beast again upon his accustomed level. He was evidently none the worse for his experience, aside from the bruises he received which will incapacitate him for the road probably for several days.

Dr. Reid was driving along College avenue and approaching the lights which marked the excavation, mistook them for the lights which have been used all summer to mark the material which the builders of the Christian church have piled in the street, and consequently piloted his horse to the north side of the street directly into the ditch. The excavation is about six feet deep and the creature was completely hidden from view, the harness breaking and allowing him to drop straight to the bottom. The narrowness of the space prevented the animal from struggling and thereby injuring himself.

It was found necessary to seek aid, and the services of the fire department were enlisted. A twenty-ton block and tackle, used in handling the stone which enters into the construction of the church, was put in place and spades secured with which to dig sufficient space on each side to allow the passing of hawsers about the body of the quadruped and thereby lift him back to earth. This was accomplished with the aid of the advice freely submitted by the bystanders, who increased in number as time went on.

The excavation was made for Mr. Degen by the employes of George E. Mathews & Co., for the purpose of making a sewer connection, and is said to have been properly marked with several red lanterns.

CROP CONDITIONS

Corn Earing Out Nicely—Oats Harvest Finished — Wheat Threshing Somewhat Retarded—Unfavorable Outlook for Apple Crop.

Springfield, Aug. 2.—With the corn ripening rapidly, most of the threshing completed and prospects excellent for a large fruit crop, the crop summary for Illinois is of a most optimistic character. Although a good, soaking rain at this time would be beneficial to the corn, an oversupply of moisture has retarded the threshing of wheat, and in many localities losses are reported on this account.

Corn is earing out nicely in the central district, and in some of the more advanced fields in the northern district. The crop maintains a good condition and can not yet be said to be suffering, but that stage has been reached when moisture is required, and a good, soaking rain at this time will insure the crop.

The harvesting of oats is practically finished in the northern half of the state and threshing has begun. The crop was secured in good condition, and where threshing has been done a good yield of fine quality was afforded. Some grain in shock in the southern counties has been damaged by rains.

The threshing of wheat has been greatly retarded by unfavorable weather and a considerable quantity is damaged, or has been damaged by too much rain. Barley and rye where threshed have yielded well. A large crop of good hay was secured in the northern district; in the central and southern districts a considerable amount was discolored or damaged. Pastures now need rain in many localities. Cow peas are growing rapidly in the southern counties.

The outlook for sweet potatoes is favorable. Early Irish potatoes are mostly cut short.

Grapes are ripening in the southern district. The outlook for this fruit is very promising. Blackberries and raspberries are still yielding; plums are ripe and plentiful; the condition of apples is unchanged, and while some orchards will produce a fair crop, the general outlook for this fruit is unfavorable.

REGARDING CANDY.

A Candy Maker: "You have often wondered probably why candy, or taffy made from brown sugar, or even molasses becomes white by pulling and working. The reason is easy to find, provided you look in the right place for it. First the exposure to the air and the friction evaporate the syrup which contains most of the coloring matter and facilitates the oxidization of the carbon in the sugar, which is always white. Sugar contains elgven atoms of oxygen to twelve of carbon and eleven hydrogen. The syrup drained from this sugar in the refining process, not only contains more or less coloring matter, but has a smaller proportion of oxygen to the amount of carbon. Then pulling has the same effect as crushing, and sugar when crushed has its power of absorbing light destroyed, or greatly impaired, the pulled portions reflecting all the elementary colors in each ray, which results in the eye receiving the impression of white light."

Owing to the rain yesterday afternoon the ladies' handicap contest was postponed until this afternoon. It is hoped that all lady players will participate.

The men's monthly handicap cup will be played for this afternoon and many players are expected to take part in this event. This cup was won in June by Mr. Baldwin and in July by Mr. Osborne. These two events should bring out a goodly number of players.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Scurlock won from Mr. Ledford 6 up and 5 to play. Mr. Scurlock played a good strong game and proved too strong a mud horse for Mr. Ledford, the entire game being played in the rain.

An approaching green will be laid out to day, which will no doubt prove interesting for practice work.

AT HYMEN'S ALTAR

Miss Emma S. Hoyt Became the Bride of Mr. John A. Rawlings at a Pretty Home Wedding Wednesday Evening —Griggsville Nuptial Event— Other Weddings.

RAWLINGS-HOYT.

The marriage of Mr. John A. Rawlings and Miss Emma S. Hoyt took place at the home of the bride, 1051 West College avenue, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The Hoyt home was very prettily decorated with flowers of the season, hydrangeas and sweet peas being used in profusion while asparagus fern was gracefully entwined about the fixtures and over the mantles. The guests were welcomed by Miss Julia Hoyt, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Marion Tanner.

The bride and groom entered unattended from the back parlor while Miss Mary Tanner sang most beautifully the bridal chorus from Lohengrin with Miss Alice Plouer as accompanist. The ceremony was performed in the front parlor where the bridal couple stood before Dr. W. F. Short, the officiating clergyman, who joined in the bonds of matrimony the father of the groom and also a sister of the groom. The marriage service was said in a beautiful and impressive manner, using the ring ceremony. At the conclusion of the solemn service the guests, who were limited to the immediate relatives, pressed forward with their words of best wishes and hearty congratulations, and later elegant refreshments were served.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mrs. Mary M. Hoyt, and has been a resident of Jacksonville for the past five or six years. Her attainments are many and the circle of her friends is large. Owing to the recent death of her mother the wedding was a quiet one.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Greenbury Rawlings, residing east of the city, and Morgan county has been his home with the exception of a year spent in Indiana. He is a graduate of the Indiana College of Law and practiced his profession for a year at Indianapolis. He is now deputy circuit clerk under C. L. Hayden and enjoys the confidence and esteem of many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt were the recipients of many handsome tokens of regard and these were displayed in the north room upstairs. They departed for Chicago and northern Michigan on a wedding trip on a Thursday morning train and upon their return to this city will reside at 1051 West College avenue.

A quiet home wedding was celebrated in Griggsville Wednesday evening when Miss Ethel Hatch, daughter of J. F. Hatch, of that city, became the wife of Mr. W. S. Sanford, of Chicago. The ceremony was said at the Hatch residence at 6:30 o'clock in the presence of relatives and a few near friends by Rev. Mr. Appleman, the ring service being used.

The bride, accompanied by her maids, Miss Edna Hatch and Miss Mary Ludlow, and the groom, accompanied by his best man, Mr. R. W. Cooke, of Chicago, entered the parlor to the music of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, sung by Miss Cree, Miss Wilson and Miss Thacker, with Miss Sanford, sister of the groom at the piano. Master Roger Carter was the ring bearer.

LAMONT'S ENTERPRISE

The Achievements of a Former Cabinet Minister.

DISPLAYED TACT AS A POLITICIAN

While President Cleveland's Private Secretary He Lifted the Office Almost to the Dignity of a Cabinet Position—Changes He Made at the White House—His Services as Secretary of War.

The late Dan Lamont, Grover Cleveland's private secretary, is better remembered in Washington than Daniel Scott Lamont, the secretary of war, says the Washington correspondent of the New York Post. Before Lamont's day the president's private secretary was concerned solely with routine business, the disposition of mail, replying to unimportant correspondence and the making of appointments for his chief. Mr. Lamont, during his tenure of the office, to some extent made it an added cabinet position. His personal influence with Mr. Cleveland was on a par with that of any one of the seven counselors provided by law.

Mr. Lamont was a perfect complement for his chief. He had tactfulness, unfailing politeness, the widest acquaintance with public men of any man of his day, an alert, acquisitive mind, a personal poise that could not be disturbed, and a temper that was never ruffled. The personal impression that Cleveland made on the country during his first four years in the White House was largely due to Mr. Lamont's suavity and diplomacy. He mirrored his chief to the public as he would have him appear; not wholly as he was. The angles were blunted and the rough sides made smooth. No one recognized more than Mr. Cleveland how much of his popularity was due to his efficient private secretary.

Mr. Lamont's newspaper training stood him in excellent service. He knew the limitations of the correspondent's work, the meaning and value of news, the difficulties with which it was gathered, the importance of accuracy and the vital necessity of writing accounts of events while they were fresh. He was democratic and helpful, he knew men and affairs and how much to tell of all the "inside" events that came under his eye or of which he had, because of his position, first hand knowledge. He made the White House a source of accurate, fresh, valuable information such as it had never been before, and he was in the best sense of the word what Mr. Cleveland never became—a "politician."

Commentators on public affairs in Washington who had known private secretaries under other presidents were so amazed and delighted at the changes Mr. Lamont made at the White House and so appreciative of the public value of his services that some of them to this day are inclined to call him "the brains of the first Cleveland administration." This, of course, is an exaggerated estimate, but it will serve to show how striking an impression the new private secretary made on men who were not accustomed to loosing their tongues in praise of public officers unless tribute was eminently well deserved. Here is a description of him, written "off the griddle," so to speak, in the days when he was new to the capital:

His private secretary is Daniel S. Lamont. Lamont is a wonder. He is a small blond young man of thirty-six, with sandy hair and mustache. He has a modest personal appearance, dresses very neatly, and there is no man in New York state, not excepting Samuel J. Tilden, who has a larger acquaintance with prominent Democrats. He is honest, knows a man at a glance, and the moment any one comes into Cleveland's office he can tell what his business is. He signifies to his chief by a nod of his head what he thinks of the request about to be made. He never loses his head, has been with politicians all his life and yet has the most exemplary habits. He never smokes and never swears. He is of slight stature and does not at first command the attention to which his abilities are entitled.

A sketch of Mr. Lamont, written in 1884, bears the caption "The Pleasant History of a Pink of Politeness." In 1882, when Mr. Lamont was a nominee for the clerk of the New York senate, he had already developed a modesty, a merit and an organizing and working capacity which had won for him the respect, the regard and the confidence of all who had been brought into relations with him. He had made his mark so deeply at Albany that when Mr. Cleveland became president it was taken for granted that his private secretary would accompany him to Washington. One who knew him in the Albany days contributes this glimpse of the methods that made Mr. Lamont so widely known after he reached Washington:

"In the executive chamber he always got up to receive visitors, and his universal knowledge of public men at Washington again held good. He saw every one coming in at the distant door and spoke their name to the governor, who was quick to hear. So when Smith of Wayback came in and said, 'You don't remember me, governor, I am afraid,' the governor promptly responded:

"'Oh, yes, I do, Mr. Smith. How are the folks in Wayback?'

"When the governor wrote his famous personal comfort letter about Grady he handed the copy to Lamont and said, 'Dan, I'll wager you a dollar you would not write a letter like that?'

"Dan read it and fired up: 'I certainly wouldn't, governor. It is not called for. It will do no good, and it will put you in a bad light. It is in flattering election [illegible] not right.'

"The governor laughed. 'You almost persuade me to be a— What is the expression?' he said.

"'I wish it was politician,' replied Dan.

"But as we all know, the governor sent the letter."

Mr. Lamont took so prominent a part in the presidential campaign preceding Mr. Cleveland's election that a New York city newspaper felt constrained to ask in its editorial columns, "If Cleveland is elected will he or Colonel Lamont be president?" Colonel Lamont used to tell how he came to Washington with Mr. Cleveland. On the morning after election he casually remarked to the governor that, judging from the returns then in, he seemed to be elected. "Well," said Mr. Cleveland, "if I am elected, you are elected. I must have you with me if I go to Washington." That was all that was said about the matter.

One peculiarity that his intimates often commented upon while he was in Washington, and which has recurred to their minds vividly because of the manner of his death, was his keen distaste for being left alone. He always contrived that some one should be in the office with him at every minute of the day. No one ever saw him take a walk of even two or three blocks unaccompanied. If, when it came time for him to leave his office, no one else was ready to go he would wait for one of the clerks. After he became secretary of war and while his family was out of town he used frequently to drop in at the White House in the late afternoon and get one of the young executive clerks, whose company he enjoyed, to go to dinner with him at a hotel. He never said why he always showed such scrupulous care to avoid being left alone.

One of the first things Mr. Lamont did as secretary of war was to weed out a lot of worthless clerks in his department. Six were discharged and fifty reduced in grade and pay in one day. Another incident that army officers are fond of recalling occurred in 1895:

Senator Harris of Tennessee was in Secretary Lamont's office when Paymaster General Stanton entered and began his explanation of the financial condition of the service, referring particularly to the lack of funds for the month of June. Secretary Lamont asked what amount would be necessary to pay off all the June salaries.

"Oh, something like $50,000," replied General Stanton.

"If you could borrow that amount," said the secretary, "would it be sufficient?"

"You get me the money, Mr. Secretary, and I'll make the payment, all right," said the paymaster.

"Well, I'm thinking about advancing it myself," replied Mr. Lamont.

There was a gasp of astonishment from General Stanton and Senator Harris.

"I mean it," continued the secretary. "The army ought to be paid, and the sooner they get it the better."

"I can only say, Mr. Secretary," said General Stanton, "that if you find me the money I shall make arrangements to pay off the officers and men who did not receive their salaries for the month of June."

They used to call Mr. Lamont "the silent secretary" in the last years of his service at Washington. He was thoroughly methodical in his habit and did not waste a minute.

Among the reforms and improvements that marked Mr. Lamont's administration of the war department were the abandonment of the small outlying military posts and the concentration of the army at important railroad centers, on the seaboard and on the northern and southern frontiers, and the reduction of the term of enlistment from five to three years. He secured the repeal of the statute making ten years the maximum period of service of enlisted men. He was instrumental in securing the adoption of the new magazine rifle and carbine of reduced caliber for the army and was an earnest and consistent advocate of a general improvement of the seacoast defenses under approved projects, including the development of disappearing gun carriages. He brought about a reduction in the number of military posts from about ninety-five to seventy-five, resulting in the concentration of troops in large commands, and by so doing improving the morals, discipline and education of the army.

Compulsory M. P.'s.

The Norwegian parliament consists of 114 members, many of whom sit in the house under protest, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. All Norwegians over twenty-five years of age who satisfy certain conditions of residence, etc., meet in the local parish church once in three years and choose one man out of every 100 present to select the members of parliament for the country. The men so selected are bound to serve, whether they like the honor or not. Immediately parliament meets one-fourth of the members are chosen to form the upper house, the remaining three-fourths constituting the lower house.

A Wart or Pimple

MAY BE CANCEROUS.

When a wart, mole or pimple shows any sign of tenderness it is a warning that bad blood is behind it. Often these places are on the face, hands, legs or other part of the body for years, and give no sign to cause uneasiness, and then with a little rough handling, a slight cut or bruise will develop into a sore that refuses to heal, and the sufferer finds himself afflicted with a cancerous ulcer.

About three years ago a blister came on the right side of my nose. It grew speadily in spite of all efforts to heal it up; the pain was not very severe at first, but increased when the sore began to inflame and discharge matter. At times the place would scab over and appear to be getting well, but the scab would drop off, leaving a red, angry looking ulcer. I had almost despaired of ever curing it, when my attention was called to S. S. S., and after taking a few bottles the sore began to gradually grow smaller, the discharge stopped and I was cured.
Owensboro, Ky. JNO. MASSIE.

If the blood is pure and healthy these sores cannot exist. S. S. S. is the ideal blood purifier. It cleanses the blood of all poisons and impurities, making it strong and vigorous and able to supply the body with the strength and nourishment it needs. There is nothing that acts so promptly as S. S. S., toning up the entire system, helping the general health and curing sores permanently. Do not let a wart or pimple develop into a cancerous ulcer, but purify your blood with S. S. S. It is nature's remedy, purely vegetable, and while driving all poisons from the blood, will build up every part of the system. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired will be given without charge, to all who write.

MATHENY & LLOYD.

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Wheat—Trade was moderate and close showed advances of ¼@⅜c. Sentiment at the start was bearish, easy cables, decline in northwest and better weather in the spring wheat belt being principal influences. Offerings, however, were well taken, several important short lines being provided for at the decline, and on fair buying of December by commission houses. The situation turned firm. There was some talk of smaller acceptances southwest and prospects of smaller receipts, but the advance brought out increased offerings from cash interests and foreign advices becoming more assuring prices settled back.

Corn—There was good trade, still further gains being recorded, and extreme figures were well maintained. The close showed gains from ⅝c to 1¼@1⅜c. Cables were firm, receipts less than expected, local shipments heavy and country shipments light. Commission house buying was general at the start, while offerings were moderate. Advance was helped along by buying of old September by influential traders. At the advance realizing caused moderate recessions, but reaction followed and the market closed near the top.

Oats—There was active trade, especially at the last, when shorts were active buyers. The market had been oversold and liberal buying of all months started bears to covering. Prices closed ⅜@½c higher.

Hogs—Receipts, 20,000. Greatly inadequate supplies have put prices higher than ever, a new record being made to day. The market was 5@10c higher early with lively buying on a basis of $5.50@6.25. Mixed and butchers, $5.60@6.20; good to choice heavy, $5.90@6.15; rough heavy, $5.45@5.75; light, $5.75@6.25; bulk of sales, $5.85@6.10.

FINANCIAL MARKET.

New York, Aug. 2.—Stocks showed a constantly fluctuating tendency to day, which was due apparently to conflict of speculative parties more than to conflicting forces in developments of the day. Smelting, National Lead, Federal Mining and Smelting and United States Reduction showed notable concord of movement. Coalers as a group made up another instance of such a movement. Delaware, Lackawanna and Western to day extended its brilliant record of new high levels up to 438. A feeling of safety in the labor outlook in the coal mining industry has been induced by harmony of sentiment on the subject shown in recently published views coming from the head of the mine workers and from one of the chief executives of anthracite companies. Harder tone and slight advance in the call loan market, spring wheat damage reports and yellow fever quarantines were professed grounds for late selling. Closing quotations:

Money on call easy; highest, last loan, ruling rate and offered, 2 per cent; lowest and closing bid, 1¾. Time loans steady and dull; sixty and ninety days at 3¼@3½.
Prime paper at 4@4¼.

An Inconvenient Way of Living

[Original.]

It was five minutes after noon on Saturday. The alimony clerk had left his cage, locked it, and was about to leave his office when a man in the garb of a workman entered.

"Mornin', Mr. Hobbs," he said to the clerk.

"You mean afternoon, John. Don't you know better than to come here to make a payment after 12 o'clock on Saturdays? The safe is locked and the books closed for the week. You'll have to bring it Monday."

"Can't help it."

"Mebbe if you'd tell me where she's livin' now Ol might tak' it roun' mesel'."

"Couldn't do that. When I tell men where their wives live, they go there and raise a rumpus."

"Ol don't want to raise any rumpus, Mr. Hobbs; Ol'd jist loike to git a sight o' the kid. It's a month now since me an' me wife parted an' Ol haven't seen the boy since. Tomorra' bein' Sunda', Ol'll be havin' tolme, an' it's mighty lonesome up in me room."

John's voice trembled, and the clerk wavered. Then he told John where his wife lived.

The next morning was bright and beautiful. John shaved and got himself into a clean white shirt (with no buttons) and started to walk half a dozen miles into the country. He stopped before a cabin in the center of an acre planted with garden truck. Through the open door he could see his wife in a clean calico dress buttoning the collar on their boy, five years old, thus completing his Sunday morning costume. The man leaned on the gate and called. The woman went to the door and, seeing her husband, was about to turn away, when she noticed a pitiful expression on his face.

"What brings ye here, John?" she asked, not unkindly.

"The allymony. The offis was shet up yisterday when Ol kem. The clerk told me Ol might bring it mesel'."

The woman went to the gate and the man handed her a ten dollar bill.

"Well, come in and have a glass o' milk; ye must be tired comin' all the way from the city. Johnny'll be glad to see his dad."

Johnny, who had been admonished in no placid terms to give his father a wide berth, looking upon this as a removal of the embargo, ran down the walk, climbed up on the gate and threw his arms around his father's neck. The mother opened the gate and the boy rode into the house on his father's shoulder.

"Have y' come back to stay, dad?" he asked eagerly.

An embarrassing silence that followed this ill timed remark was broken by the mother, who told the boy to keep quiet and not muss his Sunday clothes. Then she got out a glass of milk and some bread and butter and set it before her husband.

"Yer shirt is wide open, John," she said. "I'm thinkin' Ol'd better put on some buttons while ye'r here."

While John was drinking the milk and eating the bread, or, rather, feeding it to Johnny, Mrs. Hobbs was getting out needle and thread. Then she produced the button bag, and by that time John had finished his refreshment and was ready to have his shirt repaired, but Johnny had settled himself in his father's arms and refused to be dislodged.

"Ol won't," said Johnny.

"Lave him alone," said the father. "Ol'd raythe have him than the buttons."

The woman laid aside the button bag and the thread and needle, and Johnny and his father had a romp, at the end of which the father produced a gingerbread horse and several sticks of candy, with which he bribed his son to let the mother sew on the buttons. The process of sewing on buttons without John's taking off his shirt brought husband and wife in close proximity. Nevertheless they got no closer than was necessary, and, the buttons having been sewed on, John said that since it was a long walk to the city perhaps he'd better be going. But Johnny got hold of the skirt of his coat and clung so tight that neither father nor mother had the heart to shake him off.

"Ol'm thinkin', John," said Mrs. Hobbs, "that, it bein' so onconvanient for ye to lave the allymony at the clerk's office, ye moight bring it every Sunda' yoursel'."

"And ye could put on the buttons."

An effort was made with this assurance to Johnny to remove him, but it failed.

"What d'ye say, Mary," said John, "to me stayin' on for awhile jist to plaze the chile? Ol might be helpin' ye at times with the garden."

"Ol was thinkin' mesel' that it would be more convanient for ye to be here."

"It's far from me work, but I can get up early."

"Let go, Johnny; daddy's goin' to stay with us."

She took Johnny up in her arms ostensibly to relieve his father, but really to conceal a tear that came into her eyes, and the father, not wishing to be left out of the embrace, put his arms about them both.

So John Hobbs hung up his hat and stayed with his wife and child. No reference was made by either to the cause of their divorce, which was much more easily removed than procured. Both knew that the cause of contention must be given a wide berth, and they took care that it should get no renewed foothold. They lived on together much to their own and Johnny's happiness.

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

The New Canal Engineer.

John F. Stevens, the new chief engineer in charge of the construction of the Panama canal, who has just sailed for the isthmus to take up his duties, is determined to speed the work with all the vigor at his command. In a statement made just previous to his departure Mr. Stevens said:

"I intend to spend my entire time and efforts toward pushing to completion this great work. I have been given a free hand by the president and great powers and am in thorough accord with his policy and that of the government as to this work.

"I shall make Panama my home until the work is completed and will have my family go there in the fall. I only hope that my life may be spared to finish the task that I have undertaken."

Mr. Stevens was born in West Gardiner, Me., in 1853. He chose civil engineering as his calling, and after preparing himself for that profession he was appointed assistant engineer for the city of Minneapolis in 1874. He had that position for two years and then entered the railroad service, in connection with which he has had a wide and varied experience, chiefly with construction work.

In 1882 Mr. Stevens went to the Canadian Pacific as assistant and division engineer, where he remained four years, during which time he took part in the construction of the road. Later he went to the Great Northern, rising to the position of chief engineer of that road. After three years Mr. Stevens resigned to become a railroad contractor, but after a year of that work returned to the Great Northern.

When the Rock Island passed into control of the Moore-Reid-Leeds syndicate Mr. Stevens was persuaded to accept the position of chief engineer of the Rock Island system, and he was subsequently elected second vice president. He resigned from the Rock Island to take charge of the construction of railroads in the Philippines, but before taking up this work was appointed to succeed Mr. Wallace at Panama.

HAIR!

I allow my picture published for the benefit of any one who may be annoyed with dandruff. My head was simply covered with it, and my hair came out dreadfully. My head flaked continually. I was advised by my doctor to try GERM-A-KILA HAIR TONIC. I did, and since have stopped the itching, cured the dandruff, and as to my hair, it shows for itself. I shall never be without a bottle of GERM-A-KILA HAIR TONIC.—Mrs. N. Allen, 1425 West Ohio Street, Chicago.

I make this sworn statement for the benefit of other people who are bald or getting that way. I have been bald for 14 years and on the 11th of July one year ago I commenced the use of GERM-A-KILA HAIR TONIC. The picture without hair is a correct one of myself as I have been, and the one with the hair on it as I am now, since I used GERM-A-KILA HAIR TONIC. My hair first came out after I had worn a sealskin cap, which I think was the cause. In three years after I was intirely bald. I may say in ninety days after using GERM-A-KILA HAIR TONIC I noticed a new growth of hair.

People addressing me will please inclose stamp for answer. August Frederick Schultz, 486 Cass Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

It can be found on any scalp that has dandruff. Some people have as many as two or three thousand. GERM-A-KILA HAIR TONIC destroys this germ and causes the hair to grow; besides cures any case of dandruff, stops the hair falling out in a very short time. Put up in 50c bottles only. This bottle is as large as most dollar bottles. We give no free samples. One 50-cent bottle will show for itself. Address all mail orders to the GERM-A-KILA MEDICINE CO., Milwaukee, Wis. UNKNOWN MAN TAKEN IN CHARGE

Found Near Sherman School House North of City—Unable to Tell His Name—Supposed to Be H. C. Williams of Mason City, Ia—Placed in Hospital.

A remarkable case of lapse of memory came to light Wednesday evening, when the police of this city went to the Sherman school house north of town in response to a call from the residents of that vicinity, who said that a man had been loitering about the place for the past two or three days. Captain Kennedy and Policeman Murgatroyd drove out to the school house and there found a man sitting under a tree, who afterward proved to be H. C. Williams, of Mason City, Iowa. He was unable to give any account of himself whatsoever, could not tell his own name, and did not know where he was. He was brought to this city and is being cared for at Our Savior's hospital.

Mr. Williams is a man about 50 years of age, is five feet nine inches in height and weighs about 275 pounds. When found by the police his clothing was rather the worse for wear and showed signs of having been exposed to the elements. In the pockets were a 5-cent piece, a chapter Mason's badge, an Elk's charm and a T. P. A. badge; a card case bearing the name H. C. Williams, and several pawn tickets for his watch, ring and other articles of value which had been pawned in Decatur and other cities. At his side was a small sack containing cheese and crackers, upon which he had evidently been subsisting.

The stranger was closely questioned by the police and by others after he was brought to this city, but appeared to have entirely lost his identity. The only sign of returning reason was given when he was asked if the name on the card case was his name. At this question he seemed to show signs of returning memory and replied that he believed it was. Aside from that the past appeared to be an absolute blank to him.

Among Mr. Williams' effects was a letter bearing the name of Alfred Orendorf, of Springfield. Mr. Orendorf was communicated with by the mayor, who took the case up, and from him the identity of the stranger was established. He is thought to be a traveling man, and how he came to be in such a state can only be conjectured. He exhibits none of the signs of mental aberration, his case appearing to be simply a complete lapse of memory. Such cases are not unknown to the medical fraternity, and have often resulted in many complications. In this case the necessary treatment will be given, and it is thought that the memory will return in due time.

Mallory Brothers will furnish music at a burgoo to be held at Winchester to day.

James H. Elder, of Monmouth, and Mrs. John Richardson, of Albia, Iowa, arrived in the city Wednesday for a brief visit at the home of Mrs. Eva Potter.
